

1. What's your thoughts on changing the start times?
2. Do you really think changing the times will lead to us, more specifically the highschoolers to sleep more?
3. Have you talked to other schools that have already changed their start times such as Radnor School District and Phoenix High School?
4. Instead of looking at it from an assistant to the superintendent and a PR's perspective, how would you look at it from a parent's point of view?
5. If bus drivers are the issue, why don't you just pay them more so more would wanna stay?
6. Did you get students perspective on changing times and starting later?
7. Minimum wage of bus drivers?
8. What does a public relations director do on the topic of switching start times?
9. What all does the assistant to the superintendent deal with for the school?

Notes from the Interview

Billet: No for switching because there are so many factors that go into a big switch

Romig: Getting more sleep is best for all kids, the flip would be financially convenient and convenient in general for the district as well. As a parent no pushing times because of his course load and sports after school.

8 total school districts that changed their start times

28 are considering it (ex: suburban & north eastern)

Talked about the pros and cons

South west pushed back for hs and elementary school students

People are researching about elementary school sleep studies

Bus drivers aren't an issue unless the school times got pushed back to the same time

